

BEST OF MISSISSIPPI

introduction by olivia bushardt

William Faulkner once said, “To understand the world, you must first understand a place like Mississippi.” Our readers truly understand and appreciate the value that comes with intimately knowing a place, and in our fifth annual Best of Mississippi issue, our readers highlight their favorite hotspots from around the state. We’re giving you the very best that our state has to offer in food, fun, history, and true insider knowledge of the entire state. Whether you’re Mississippian by birth or state of mind, a true appreciation of the world lies in recognizing the very best of our roots.

RON BLAYLOCK

BEST STEAK

Shapley's, Ridgeland

First opened in 1985, Shapley's remains one of Mississippi's favorite restaurants. The commitment to unprecedented quality with selection and choice-cuts of steaks has landed this superior restaurant on the top again. For a superb dinner with an elegant atmosphere, Shapley's is sure to impress. 868 Centré St., Ridgeland; 601.957.3753; www.shapleys.ms.

Select from a variety of gourmet burgers grilled to perfection and served on delicious toasted sourdough buns. From the eight-ounce Middleburger to Anthony's Peanut Butter Burger, these tasty creations will satisfy any burger enthusiast. If you're adventurous, attempt to finish the infamous "The Mugshot" within twelve minutes, or invite a group of friends and share a good meal and night out together. For locations visit www.mugshotsgrillandbar.com.

BEST NEW RESTAURANT

Mint the Restaurant

Mint, the younger sister to Jackson's Julep, appeared on the restaurant scene in November of 2008, and the combination of Southern style food with a creative twist has been delighting patrons since its grand opening. Serving innovative Southern-infusion cuisine, Mint utilizes fresh ingredients that are unique to the region. The menu changes seasonally, highlighting certain components of each dish and presenting patrons with lighter foods in summer and heavier foods during the winter months. By using locally-grown seasonal foods, Mint gives back to the community and facilitates culinary collaboration between neighbors.

David Farris, co-owner and executive chef for Mint and Julep, develops the recipes and tests them with his manager and co-owner Patrick Kelly. Recipes are constantly being tweaked and changed over time to arrive at a perfect combination of flavors that tantalize all the senses. The specials change regularly, but the popularity of several dishes is bound to keep them on the menu despite the changing season. Pan roasted redfish with grilled corn maque choux, jumbo lump crabmeat, and champagne beurre blanc is one of the most popular dinner dishes, and for lunch patrons cannot get enough of the grouper sandwich on a ciabatta bun with frissée, chipotle aioli, and fresh tomato. Without a doubt, the creativity of Mint will cement the popular restaurant as a Mississippi favorite for years to come. —Olivia Bushardt

BEST FRIED CHICKEN

Peggy's

Peggy Webb has been cooking for visitors in Philadelphia for more than forty one years, and although she retired seven years ago, her famous fried chicken continues her legacy. When the telephone company changed to the dial system in the 1950s, Peggy began serving lunch to men who came from all over the state to work, and when they returned to their hometowns, the news of Peggy's Restaurant began to spread. By the early 1960s, so many visitors came to the restaurant daily that Peggy could not cook, serve, and make change. Customers began laying their money on the counter, and soon after a wicker basket was added that still remains today.

Peggy doesn't cook her chicken in a multitude of spices but allows the taste of the tender, perfectly cooked chicken to stand on its own. She has kept the same menu for years, and patrons declare that the food tastes just as good as it did when they visited Peggy's years before. Another feature that hasn't changed is the family-style seating, which allows patrons to sit and talk with other guests. Strangers usually find a connection, whether friends or kin, and they have Peggy and her delectable crispy fried chicken to thank. —O.B.

BEST SEAFOOD

AJ's on The Lake

With the new location on Township Avenue, AJ's on the Lake has significantly expanded to accommodate the number of patrons clamoring to visit this well-known establishment. Lucy and John Taylor first opened AJ's in 1999 and named the family-friendly restaurant after their two children, Alyssa and Johnny. From the beginning, the Taylors have kept their commitment to providing a superior dining experience for every customer, and with a charming ambiance, dulcet music, and Southern hospitality, John and Lucy have certainly raised the bar for casual fine dining in Mississippi.

AJ's serves Caribbean fare reminiscent of Lucy's South American origin, and with unique dishes such as sevice, plantains, delicious three-milk cake, and fresh seafood, AJ's provides a culinary treasure for all who visit. Every table offers patrons a stunning and different view of the gorgeous lake. With the calming décor and delicious food, AJ's really is a place to "relax, don't rush the meal, and get away from troubles," says John. —O.B.

BEST PLACE SHOPPING DESTINATION

Renaissance at Colony Park, Ridgeland

Since opening over a year ago, Renaissance at Colony Park has blossomed into one of Mississippi's premiere open shopping destinations. It offers restaurants and stores such as J. Crew, Anthropologie, P.F. Chang's, and Fresh Market—the only ones of their kind in Mississippi. Renaissance draws customers from across the state for its ambiance, variety, and exceptional specialty stores.

Soft background music, multiple fountains, and outdoor sitting areas are just a few of the positive features of this outdoor shopping market, with a distinct European feel. At night, stroll through the "alleyways" of Renaissance draped with lights as if you were in Italy. Even finding a parking spot and driving around the brick lined roundabout gives that feeling of being across the pond.

If the grand architecture was not enough, the excellent list of retailers (that keeps growing) is sure to bring in customers. National retailers such as Bath Junkie, J. Jill, and Ann Taylor as well as local shop owners are all tenants. —S.M.

JAMES PATTERSON

BEST SOURCE FOR THE WELL-DRESSED WOMAN

CoatTails, Ridgeland

CoatTails is undeniably chic. From the mother-of-pearl walls in the dressing rooms to the hardwood floors to the posh furniture, CoatTails is the place for the newest, modern apparel. You can always be assured CoatTails is carrying the latest and most fashion-forward trends just by looking at the displays as you drive down Ridgeland's Jackson Street.

Opening its doors in 2006, owner Carolyn Voyles wanted a place for every woman in Mississippi to get great fashions previously not sold in the state.

"I have always had a love for fashion. We opened CoatTails because we wanted to offer the people of Mississippi, who have the same love for fashion, a large selection of unique items," she said.

If you cannot decide on the perfect outfit, Voyles suggests asking one of the associates or get an idea from one of the fashion shows playing on one of the multiple flat screen televisions.

"The selection and customer service at CoatTails sets it apart from others," she said. "Our talented staff's ability to help our customers look their absolute best continues to amaze me." —S.M.

CoatTails, 111 West Jackson Street, Ridgeland; 601.853.1313.
